CROFTING INQUIRY DEADLINE

The call for evidence to the Crofting Inquiry will close at the end of July. The Scottish Crofting Foundation today reminded all those with an interest in the future of crofting to send their views to the inquiry team, which is led by Professor Mark Shucksmith.

SCF Chief Executive Patrick Krause said, “there has been an excellent response to the inquiry so far from crofters and those interested in crofting. Public meetings held across the area to gauge initial views have been very well-attended.

Many people will have picked up the inquiry pack which invites both general and specific comments. The call for evidence is also online at www.croftinginquiry.org . A number of the inquiry packs are available direct from the SCF office for those who have not received or picked them up elsewhere.”
